REDEEMER COLLEGE 90 ~ 91

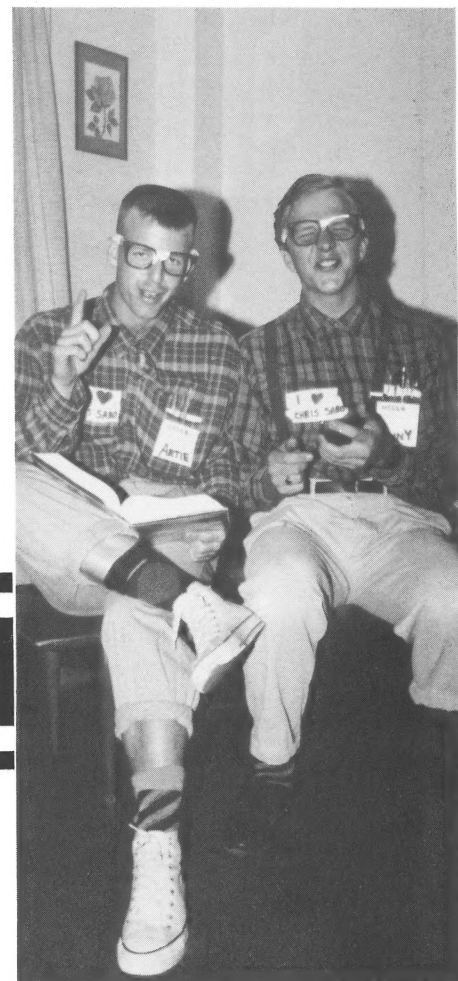

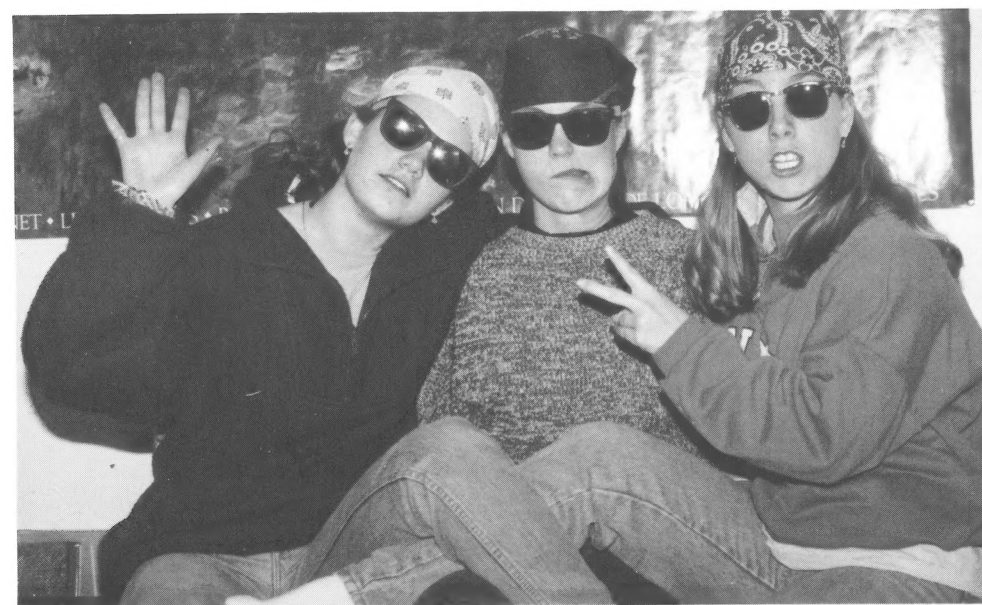

Anno Domini 1990-91. Another year at Redeemer completed. Another yearbook to add to the collection. For each person the year brought different memories: joys and sorrows, successes and failures. But for everyone this yearbook holds the past, the school year of 1990-91. We hope this yearbook will bring joy to everyone and put a smile on every face.

This yearbook could never have been completed without the many helping hands along the way. Thank you to Harriet, Patti, Anne-Marie, Alice and Ramona for all their help. Special thanks to those people in the General Office--Janet, Cynthia, Christine and Christina--for all their help. Thank you to Dr. Boersma, our staff advisor, and all those people who helped in other ways. We hope you enjoy this yearbook.

STUDENT LIFE

BANQUET

From the Editor..

Another school year gone, and twelve more issues of the CROWN with it. Hopefully those issues will help make permanent some of this year's events, which otherwise might be sacrificed by our not-so-permanent memories.

I was fortunate to edit Redeemer's student newspaper during the 1990-1991 academic year, for it was a very important year for news, both at the national/international level and for the Redeemer College community. The aftermath of the Oka Crisis and the short but violent Gulf War provided the CROWN with an opportunity to be less introspective than in the past, and to deal with issues not exclusively Redeemer-related; here on the Island, the announcement of the tuition-lowering trust fund may have been the biggest story the CROWN has ever covered.

There was a change in perspective at the CROWN that was not always appreciated by Redeemerites, especially those in the upper classes. Accustomed to a CROWN that attacked Redeemer's Administration for any perceived or actual misstep, they were not comfortable with a CROWN that prodded or criticized students. However, I feel that this is a function of this newspaper that has long been overlooked. There were more changes in the CROWN this year than can be described in this short space. A staff made up largely of energetic and capable first-years held the promise of much future success for the paper, though the lack of experienced staff was definitely felt. The format and layout of the paper changed drastically. Sports coverage doubled, and a shorter printing time allowed us to provide news that was sometimes only a day old—not bad for a twice-monthly paper!

The CROWN also changed on a less obvious level. Our Constitution was finalized, after years of work by several editors. Financially, we started off with a sizeable debt from last year and ended up with a surplus, despite the blow dealt us by the Goods and Services Tax.

A tremendous thank-you to the almost thirty people who regularly gave of their time and talents to make the CROWN what it was, and thanks also to the student body, which provided both the funding and the readership of this newspaper. And, most of all, thanks to God for providing Redeemer students with the gifts, resources, and abilities to make the CROWN a successful and respected newspaper. Redeemer College is at one of the most exciting times of its brief history, a time of expansion, growth, and increasing confidence. The CROWN shares in this excitement, and will continue to serve Redeemer students, staff, faculty, and community, thanking God for the opportunity to do so and doing it to His glory.

CROWN

Once again we have a new yearbook in our hands full of reminders of this past year. We're all advanced in our studies; some have moved on to graduate and others have just begun.

This year, like many years, was full of changes. This was the year with the largest graduating class to date. The crown took on a new look and Senate's constitution was completely revised and rewritten. Perhaps, most amazing of all, the tuition dropped to an unbelievable amount. All of these events, and many more, remind us of God's work in our lives and in our school. Again, he has blessed us with wisdom, energy and ambition. He has blessed us with tasks of all different sorts, and gave us the strength to complete these tasks. Praise and thanks to Him for his unfailing love for us!

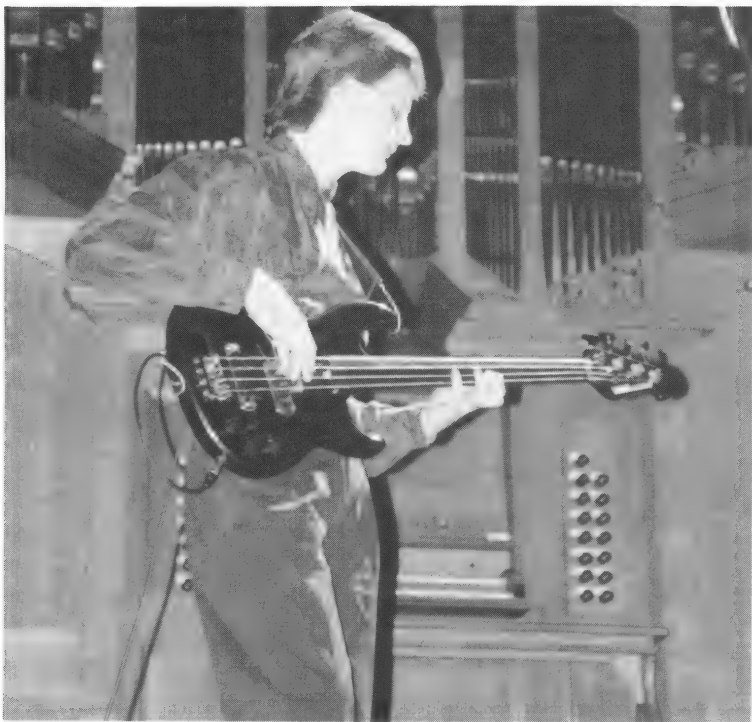

As you page through this yearbook, remember the people, the activities, your dorm or whatever, but most of all, remember the One who has blessed us and really made it all possible.

MIDNIGHT BREAKFAST

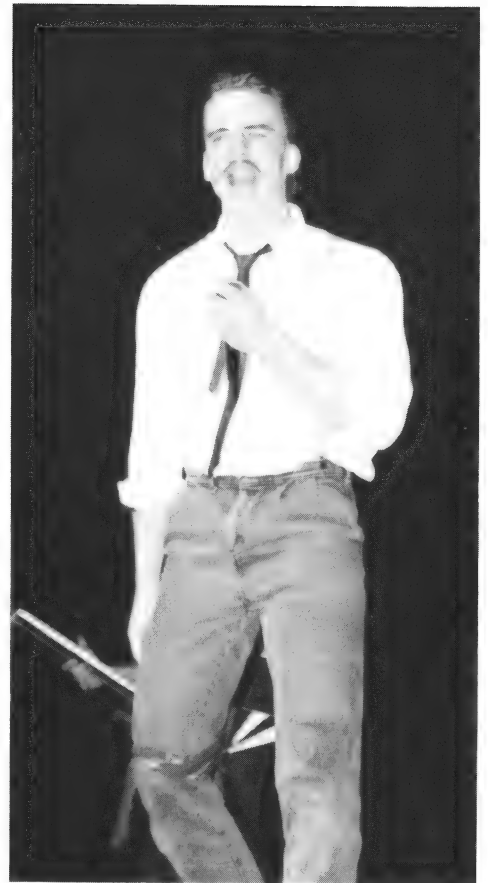

Midnight Breakfast has become a tradition at Redeemer. It is the opportunity for students to come to school in their best night clothing, to be waited upon, hand and foot, by faculty and staff. Once again the faculty and staff provided the students with a great late night breakfast. Professors served up steaming hot eggs and bacon followed by hot cakes.

FALL PLAY

You Never can Tell, Redeemer College's fall theatre production was an awesome success. Mrs. Clandon was a liberated woman, with new ideas. She was a separated woman with custody of her children. Mr. Crampton, her husband, had not seen his children for eighteen years, and was not thrilled by their lack of manners and poor behaviour. The passionate kiss of Gloria (Nancy) and Valentine (T. David) brought a round of applause from the audience. William, the waiter, was always present at the most opportune times. He brought focus and relieved the tension, being both serious and humorous. Mr. Buhn entered at last to solve the problems and tie up loose ends. Thank you to all who participated in the fall production.

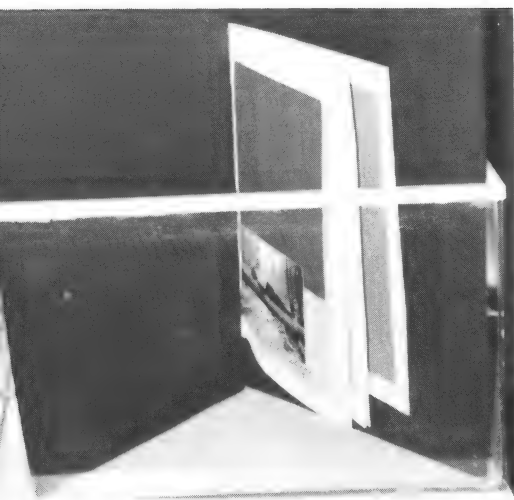

AIR BAND

Eight air bands competed for first place at Redeemer's annual air band competition. The audience enjoyed a wide variety of music, including appearances by the Universe man, a wedding couple and some cowboys. First place for overall best band went to Approved by Student Life for their version of Everybody's Working for the Weekend.

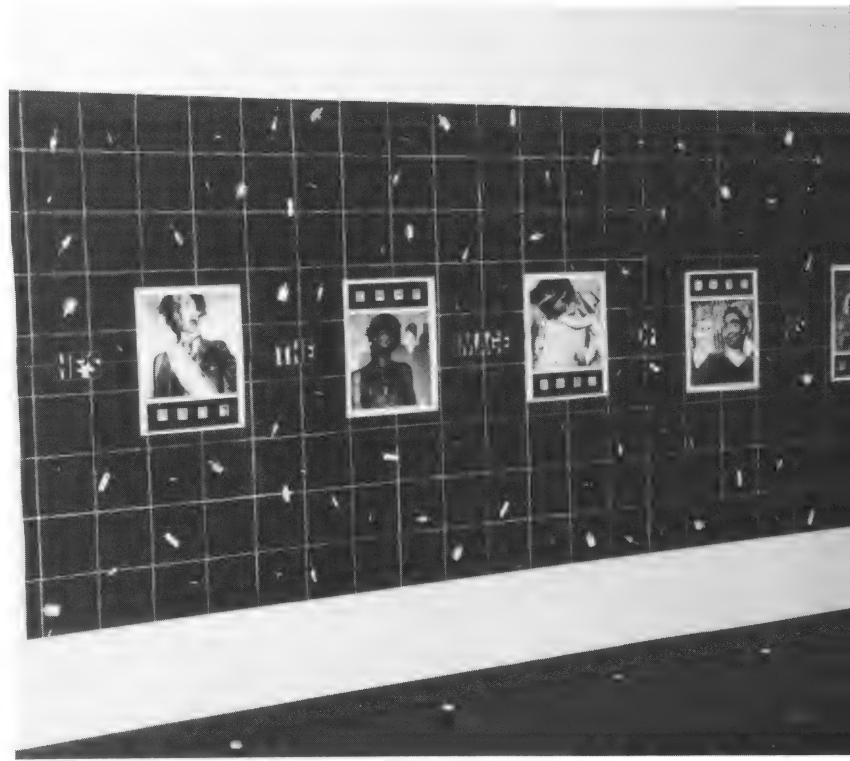

ART SHOWS

Chaired Experience was the art show depicting the works of the Art 110 class. The College community was privileged to witness this assignment, which centred around the theme of a chair. The results indicated remarkable creativity and diversity. Themes of the art pieces included the tendency to prejudge others, the coherence of nature, experiencing the loss of loved ones, children and their chairs, and many more. These art works gave one something to look at as well as serious ideas to think about.

Paternal Topography, the work of Gerry Vaandering and Jamie Thompson was on display from January 10 to 24, 1991. Both of these artists from the London area had a piece that was both expansive in size and scope. The works reflected one basic theme - that of relationships, particularly those between father and son. Vaandering's use of media to show connections between generations as well as the tension between rigid exactness and subtle ambiguity was very effective. Thompson, who used photographs, painting, magazine images, barbed wire, and nails, connected the two sides of his work with black tarps. He addressed the connection between father and son in terms of the enduring effect a father has on his son.

CAMPUS LIFE

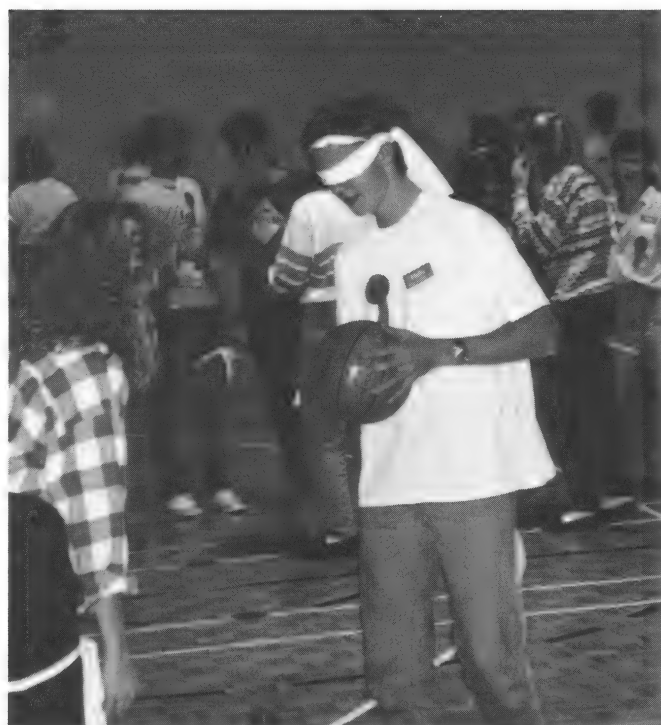

Coffee House

Coffee House was held every other Tuesday night in the Black Box, providing students a forum for showing their talents while others enjoyed the atmosphere. The cafe like atmosphere was provided by CAB. Students paid 50 cents to sit back and enjoy the entertainment provided by their fellow students while sipping coffee and tea.

NEW HORIZONS

New Horizons is the weekend devoted to prospective students of Redeemer College. Once again the weekend was a huge success, and fun was had by all. Redeemer students, faculty, and staff treated the high school students to a weekend of fun, university style. The high school students had the chance to talk to professors, live in College housing, and make new friends. The Admissions staff treated the students with an informative fun filled weekend.

ROYAL'S ATHLETICS

Royal's Athletics, the varsity teams of Redeemer College had yet another great year of competition. This year the Men's Basketball Club became an official varsity team adding to the number of varsity sports at Redeemer College. Each team has done well this season, and each team plans to do well again in the future. Well done Royals, just wait until next year!

HOCKEY

This year, the Redeemer Royals Hockey Team returned to the Niagara Christian Hockey League. The competition that this league offers is in a large part responsible for the hockey team's great success this season. The "Rendezvous 2" games against Calvin (College) were exciting and productive, serving as the season highlight for team members.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Women's Soccer had another great season. This year the team made it to the finals at the Ontario Championships. The team was defeated at the Championships for the first time. The Women's Soccer team is looking forward to an even better season next year. The team took home the silver medal. Way to go Royals!

MEN'S SOCCER

Men's Soccer had its most successful season ever, finishing above the .500 mark in the OCAA. The team started the year off by impressively beating the defending Canadian Champions. Solid defense characterized the team so that it could make greater strides forward in its standings. In the playoffs, the Royals narrowly lost to the team which went on to be second in all of Canada.

BADMINTON

The Redeemer College Badminton Club had a challenging season in 1991. The team played in Tournaments with the Regional Bible Colleges as well as against schools in the OCAA. It was an exciting season of improvements and a lot of fun.

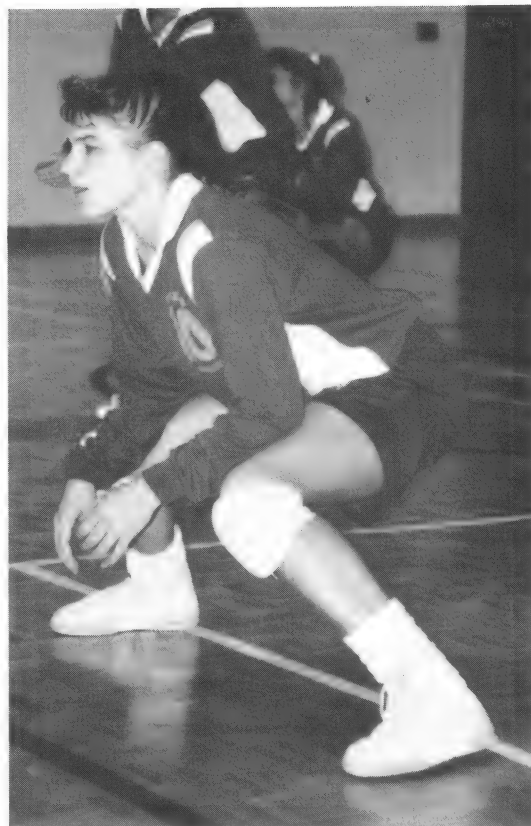

INDOOR SOCCER

The Redeemer women's indoor soccer team took first place this year at the OCAA provincial indoor soccer championships in April. A total of ten colleges participated in this two day tournament. Coach Allan Brown's young Royals lost only their first game on their way to the championship. Annette Kroezen was selected as tournament MVP and Patti Masengi was selected to the tournament all-star team.

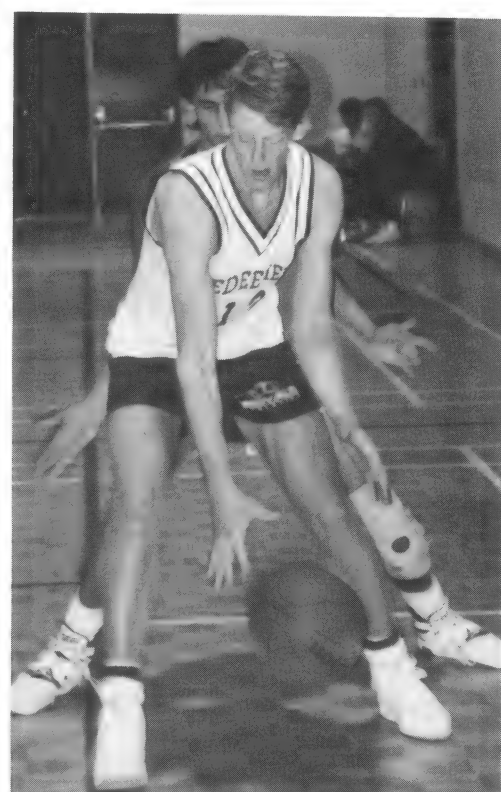

MEN'S VOLLEYBALL

The men's volleyball team finally matured into a strong unit that made the playoffs for the first time ever. After winning eight of their last ten, they entered the playoffs where they went 1-3, losing in long, hard-fought matches. Terry Talsma was again the team leader, being selected to the All-Star team for the second consecutive year. With only senior Walt Hartholt leaving, John Byl is expecting only better things in the coming year.

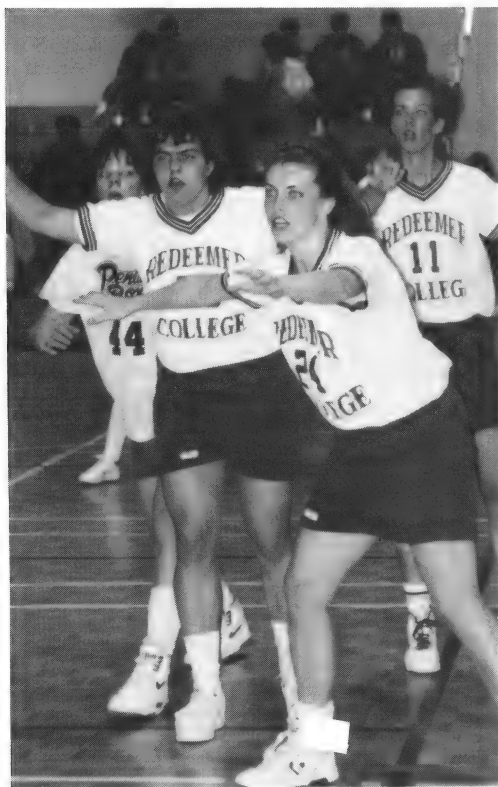

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

The women's volleyball team had a very successful year considering the youth and inexperience on this year's team. Like the men, they made the playoffs where they finished fifth. Senior Val Wolters and Paula Zondag were both named to the All-Star team, and Jane Devos-Kors was selected as division Coach of the Year. Only Wolters and Christine Triemstra will not be returning.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

The men's basketball competed in the OCAA for the first time this year. Their 3-11 record was quite good for a small school's inaugural season, especially since half of the losses were by less than ten points. Leaders on the team included Al Van Donkersgoed and Jon Bremer. Coach Kevin Fitzpatrick is expecting better things for next year's team, with many of this year's team returning.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The women's basketball team competed in a local Hamilton-based league. They finished a strong fourth in a 12 team circuit, and bowed out late in the playoffs. The team also won their challenge against Ontario Bible College in the OCCAC. Team leaders were Karen Schouten and Jacqueline Scholman, who received MVP trophies for their pains.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Some time in the future we will see an edition of Anno Domini which is very comparable to a yearbook from any number of universities that have been in existence for a long time.

However, each edition of Anno Domini reminds us of the fact that we are a very young institution where many new and exciting things happen. Oh sure, there are activities which are becoming a tradition at Redeemer College and we are grateful for that, for in the long run we ought to be able to say "This is typical of Redeemer College....". However, we are not yet at that stage.

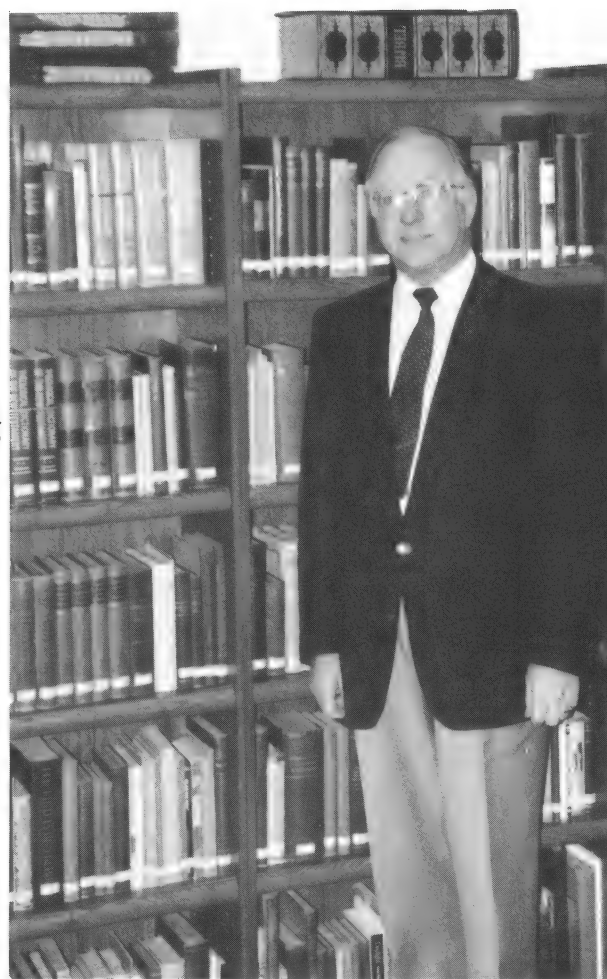

Nevertheless, the pages of this yearbook are an expression of the progress this young college has made. Many changes are an improvement of past years and the photographs do express a maturing process.

Thank you for a job well done. The editors especially deserve our deep appreciation. It is my prayer that as you look back on the year just past, you will be encouraged, and that the memories of the year will bring a smile to your face. There may also be reason for tears as we are reminded of some hardships we experienced together when death and illness struck us.

May the Lord continue to bless us at Redeemer College, and may we remain faithful to Him and to His Word.

Your President

Henry R. De Bolster

ADVERTISEMENTS

Graduation is only the beginning.

Learning is a lifetime experience. Combining your formal education with daily application of moral principles is a never ending challenge. Bringing all these components together so that all the residents of our world may live in growing harmony is the ultimate goal of the educated mind. So we welcome you, not as graduates, but as fellow learners, to the next stage of learning. And the test you will face is what you do individually as you encounter inhumanity. Where will you stand when advocates like Keegstra and Zundel preach hatred of one race. What action will you take when Judge J. J. Strydom in South Africa gives a suspended sentence and imposes a $1,500 fine on a white farmer for calmly and deliberately kicking a black man to death over a period of two days. How forceful will you be when tribal conflicts erupt. What will you do when human freedoms are repressed in countries that supply your business with produce, or parts, or customers. And perhaps the hardest question of all: How long will your sense of social justice survive after you have purchased your house, car, furniture, clothing and all the accoutrements of western success. You may have thought graduation was the end of all the questions. It is instead only the beginning. Our best wishes on your continuing journey toward understanding and action.
